

Congress Roars Yes
Quick Action, Plenty of It
Why Drag Us In?
Germany Worries France
By ARTHUR BRISANE

WHEREVER we may be going we are moving in a hurry. The President asked Congress: "May I cut down the value of the national dollar, double the price of gold, take for Uncle Sam all the gold in the country? ... may I borrow ten thousand million dollars this year to help the idle and revitalize business?"

The House roars yes, by a vote of 360 to 40. As though the President had asked, "May I have a match?"

Republicans complain, demand more time to fight and protest, but they are swept aside. They had their chance, sat still and did nothing. Now they must watch some one who does NOT sit still and do nothing.

The Senate will approve the action of the House. This is no time for gentlemen on the public payroll to say "NO."

The people want action, quick and pitiful, and do not care how the bill will be paid.

One thing to certain, if this government insists on putting out ten billion dollars worth of new yellow, interest-bearing bonds, costing taxpayers for interest four or five hundred million dollars a year and perhaps more, as government credit falls, there will be trouble ahead.

Once more be it said, the government, instead of insisting on bond issues and gigantic interest payments, could and should issue its own currency and pay bills with that. The government's promise to pay, on green paper bearing no interest, would be exactly as good as its promise to pay—plus interest—on yellow paper. And issuing currency, instead of a crippling bond issue, would help government credit. A government, free of a four or five hundred million dollar annual interest load, would have better credit than that with annual interest burdens added to its other obligations.

Who are the congenial users, money lenders and interest grabbers that persuade the President to issue bonds, instead of currency? If the currency would be "INFLATION," then the bonds would be inflation, plus the added inflation of ten billions in interest charges added to the ten billions of principal, before the debt would be paid off.

Heriot, former French prime minister, in an article written for Universal Service, says war is surely coming in the East, because of Japan's need for more room to expand and make surplus population comfortable. He says the world expects war.

Why insist on pushing us in? What have we done to deserve a war? Did we not send men and billions enough last year? Have we ever made any serious attempt to collect from the warring Europeans?

Will any Englishman, Frenchman, Italian or other suggest that, if we were in trouble, we should not send as much as one man or one dollar here?

If war comes it will be between Japan and Russia. The latter is now a European ally and Europe, Russia would show what revolution, Lenin and Stalin have done for her, and Japan, afraid of nobody, would fear the difference between revolutionary Russia and the Russia of the Czar. It would be a considerable difference.

Germany's Nazi government shows that two million men, formerly idle, have recently been put to work.

The Paris Tropic says many of them are in factories adapting manufacturing for military use.

But Germany now has a great flying fleet, that could be changed to a fighting bombing fleet over night. Since the factories are able to make war material have risen violently in price on the German stock exchange, which, according to Heriot, means that Germany expects to use them to the limit and soon. Many men have suddenly been put to work in such factories. Germany has 20 aircraft factories, against eight in Britain, and could produce 2000 new bombing and pursuit planes every month. Unpleasant war possibilities there.

REDY'S WIFE DROPS SUIT FOR MORE CASH

"Fraud Plot" Charged by Crooner's Lawyer, Caught Unawares

New York, Jan. 22 (AP)—Mrs. Fay Webb Valle, in a surprise move today, discontinued her suit in Supreme Court to set aside a separation agreement made with her husband, Redy Valle, orchestra leader, and to restrain him from suing for divorce anywhere but in New York state.

Benjamin Harstein, counsel for Mrs. Valle, announced discontinuance of the suit when he appeared before Justice John M. Gishin to argue a motion by Valle to restrain Mrs. Valle from proceeding with a suit for separate maintenance in California.

Harstein said that Supreme Court Justice Lyon had approved discontinuance of the suit early today. The announcement apparently astonished Gishin, who declared he had no warning and added: "They are trying to perpetrate a fraud on the court."

Valle attacked the California suit on the ground that his wife had fled from him in New York, and that he was unable to locate her.

CONTACT MAN IN KIDNAPING CASE GONE

Activities Are Seen to Show Early Return of Missing Banker

St. Paul, Jan. 22.—Unusual activity by police and members of the Bremer family today provoked new speculation over whether contact with the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy banker abducted for $200,000 ransom, was impending.

Walter Magee, friend of the Bremer family, said he had seen the man who recovered the first and only note from the kidnapers shortly after Bremer was seized last Wednesday.

At the Jacob Schmidt Brewing Company, of which Adolph Bremer is principal owner, the telephone line of the elder Bremer was kept clear by the company's operator.

The senior Bremer is a personal friend of President Roosevelt.

Police headquarters were virtually deserted by the detectives, who have lounged about, deferring efforts to apprehend the abductors at the request of the elder Bremer.

One officer said "This is the last sign of this" referring to activity.

U. S. SAYS SANKNEY Adolph Bremer, it was believed, might be the medium through which the kidnapers planned to receive ransom money.

Europe Expects Debt Slash If President Is Given Right to Negotiate on Tariffs

The article following is the first of five articles by William Hillman, London representative and chief of staff of the European correspondents of the Hearst papers.

Mr. Hillman has exceptional knowledge of European affairs, extensive acquaintance with government officials in various countries, and prolific sources of information.

Europe knows much more about the acts and purposes of the American government than the American people know.

Mr. Hillman's articles, which are entirely accurate, will probably give the American people, and the American Congress too, for that matter, a clearer insight into the attitude and objectives of the Washington administration than can be obtained from news sources here at home.

The facts related by Mr. Hillman are all obtained from state documents or authoritative statements of foreign government officials. Editor of Boston Evening American.

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
Dramatic reduction of war debts—the big bad wolf of international politics—threatens to slink into Washington disguised as presidential authority to negotiate TARIFF RECIPROCITY AGREEMENTS.

Unless war debts are SPECIFICALLY EXCLUDED BY CONGRESS from the mandate which the President hopes to obtain from Congress, tariff negotiations conducted by the Executive with the principal European debtors of the United States WILL BE SWIFTLY TRANSFORMED INTO NEGOTIATIONS TO REDUCE WAR DEBTS.

It is admitted the Executive has in mind the "PROBABILITY" of discussing war debts.

"SETTLEMENT" MEANS WAR DEBT CUT
It is considered inevitable that European countries owing millions of dollars to the United States will raise the question of war debts in connection with the favorable balance of trade which the United States enjoys, and has coveted for some years vis-a-vis the principal European debtors. It is stated that only executive authority acting "realistically" and WITHOUT THE HAMPERING INTERFERENCE OF OPEN DEBATE can handle effectively this "delicate" question.

Furthermore, unless they are careful, the three little piglets of Congress to deal with war debts, right of the Senate to deal with foreign relations, and right of Congress in the final resort to determine the basic monetary and fiscal policies of the country—may find themselves blown away by the extraordinary executive powers contained in some new deal monetary program.

For in any currency and monetary scheme, permitting the Executive alone to determine all the conditions of a final and permanent stabilization of the dollar, THE QUESTION OF WAR DEBTS IS CERTAIN TO CREEP IN.

NEIGHBORS IN DRIVE TO GET YOUTH FREE

Counsel for Phillips Denies Confession in N. H. Camp Killing

By ARTHUR J. QUINN
Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent
Charlestown, N. H., Jan. 22.—The spectacle of virtually an entire community rallying to the aid of a 17-year-old boy charged with murder, was presented here today.

Public sentiment was mounting steadily in favor of Charles B. Phillips, 17, charged with the slaying of George L. Thomas, 45, in Charlestown, N. H., Jan. 22.

While the boy declared the shooting to have been accidental, and police charged was a deliberate slaying, townspeople said that if any murder was committed, it was sympathetic.

"The boy will never be convicted," the townspeople said, and they extended their sympathy to the bedridden Mrs. Phillips and her husband, former wealthy business man.

The family has retained Judge Jacob M. Shilling of Newport, and in connection with the case, a committee to raise a defense fund for the youth.

At that time Judge Shilling will attempt to obtain his release on a plea of not guilty, and if successful will demand a lower court trial.

"I know of no confession," said Judge Shilling. "The boy is not guilty."

Ely Denies Woman's Plea to Stay Osman-Death Tonight

A final plea for Ahmed Osman was filed today by Gov. Ely. As a result, Osman's death sentence was postponed until tonight.

When the Valle case was called later today, Justice McGehean, Mrs. Valle's attorney obtained an adjournment until next Monday.

DR. ALICE ASKS BOILING WATER FOR MISTRIAL

Chicago, Jan. 22 (AP)—Dr. Alice L. Wynkoop today signed a petition asking Judge Joseph R. Davis to declare a mistrial because of her precarious health. Attorney Milton Smith announced.

Judge Davis had indicated he would grant the motion, if it were made, after listening to medical testimony that Dr. Wynkoop's physical condition was so poor that she would be unable to stand trial.

Attorneys said they considered it probable that the trial would be officially declared ended shortly. Declaring of a mistrial probably would be accompanied by withdrawing a juror. Dr. Alice then would be returned to the county jail to await sufficient improvement in her condition to warrant a new trial.

HOUSE COMMITTEE OVERKILLS BUCKLEY

LOS ANGELES CRUISE, TREATY LIMITS PROCEED

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—The House appropriations committee considers a complete navy of such importance that today it voted to override Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas and authorize $1,200,000 to start three new six-inch gun cruisers in the next fiscal year.

The annual naval appropriation bill reported to the House carried $23,000,000 for "increase of the navy," $1,200,000 more than the Budget director recommended.

A navy near London treaty limits when completion of the present program was pictured by a $28,470,000 naval supply bill.

Talking with statements by Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations, that the condition of the fleet was not sufficient, the committee reported a bill, with treaty limitations in all construction, completely discounting over-age cruisers.

INCREASES PERSONNEL
The committee provided for an increase of 200 enlisted naval and 1000 Marine personnel.

The measure is $22,000,000 less than the current appropriations and $1,500,000 below budget estimates. Transfers of unexpended funds totaling $1,000,000, however, would bring the actual cost within $1,000,000 of the actual cost.

Admiral Standley urged the committee to increase pay enlisted men to $5.00, and to increase pay for the London treaty requirements, he would be $450,000 at the end of the fiscal year.

He asserted the United States on the basis of 100 per cent replacements would require 100,000 enlisted men, and 12,000, not including replacements, to maintain the fleet.

Navy officials told the committee that while construction had been satisfactory recently but had been somewhat less than the comparative strength of other navies.

ARMY UP TO LIMIT
One showed that whereas the Army bill was $100,000,000 less than the United States was supposed to be $45, present construction plans, even including the Recovery act allocation of $25,000,000 for the building and completion of 54 ships now arranged for, would put the United States at 10,000 ships.

Admiral Standley said that for the three navies to have full quotas of ships when the treaty expires December 31, 1936, the United States must build 102 new ships, Great Britain 84 and Japan 56.

Furthermore, a note added that Japan must scrap or convert into training vessels "several modern ships she now possesses to help within her treaty quota."

The newest battleship, Standley said, would be modernized and not in the immediate future. They include the West Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, Colorado, and the already modernized Oklahoma, Texas and New York need new engines.

"The condition of the remaining battleship, in my opinion, is not satisfactory," he added. "The two large aircraft carriers (Lexington and Saratoga) are retrograding materially."

SUBMARINES ANTIQUATED
"The situation in regard to our destroyers is critical, and I think we should have a new class of destroyers built."

Oil Firms Put Gold Clause in Navy Bid
Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee report on the naval supply bill today showed that three big oil companies bidding for fuel contracts for the navy inserted a hedging clause giving them the right to cancel agreements in the event of devaluation of the gold dollar, currency inflation or increases costs through NEA operations.

The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, the Mexican Petroleum Corp. and the Colonial Petroleum Co. submitted bids containing a "hedge clause," all of practically the same nature, which would increase the bid in the event of a devaluation of the dollar due to operation of the NEA or for other causes.

Facsimile of the note received by the Minneapolis postmaster concerning the fate of Edward G. Bremer, kidnap victim. The note follows: To a Federal Office, Dear Sir, Very sorry, but Ed Bremer is now resting in peace.—Was by accident bumped off.—body near Anoka, Minn., will not be found unless after snow goes.—Contact all off.—Please forgive me all a mistake.—One of our gang been drunk. Please tell Walter Magee.—St. Paul. (Signed) One of the Gang. Letter A and upward-pointing arrow is written opposite signature.

Simultaneous orders to bring in evidence with underworld connections were issued by Fred Bremer, captain of Minneapolis detective, in the hope questions might give some information.

Several Minneapolis men were linked with the Charles F. Urechel kidnapping by possession of part of the ransom money.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, through its state commander, John R. Ladd, St. Paul, paid $10,000 in the hunt for the abductors.

Last Friday Adolph Bremer has had $200,000 in use bills ready to pay the ransom money.

The father of the kidnap victim is bearing the strain of his son's misfortune extremely well, close friends report, and appears contented that Edward will be returned safely to his family.

He declined to talk for publication and maintained the silent vigil which has been his lot since last Wednesday.

In the meantime his friends are keeping him up to date by telephone calls or other messages.

John Edward Bremer, 42, of the missing president of the Commercial Union Trust Co., remains in a beautiful home owned by his daughter Betty, who was the last member of the family to see him.

Bremer refuses to see all callers but is standing up under the enormous strain with fortitude and confidence that her husband will be returned.

Officers who were sent to Anoka to search for the supposed body of the kidnap victim, when a letter was received that he was buried in the snow there, reported that an exhaustive search of the area returned them satisfied that the letter was a hoax.

This anonymous letter, written on stationery of a "Union City Mission," was carefully examined by police for fingerprints and was compared with the handwriting on the original ransom note, but all signs of value were obtained.

Police and Department of Justice agents today agreed that contact would be made with the kidnapers and did not think the story about the Bremer should be taken as an indication he would not be returned.

Navy Enoch to Face Federal Showdown

Successor Expected to Be Strong Militarist and Clique Member

John W. Maxwell, modern "Enoch Arden," whose changed identity and marital difficulties have caused a legal muddle which has government officials puzzled, may be ordered to Oklahoma City for a "showdown," it was learned here today.

Maxwell, who was recently found serving as a pharmacist's mate at the Naval Hospital at Chelsea, told investigators he assumed the "missing husband" role when he believed his wife had been unfaithful while he was in France. The child, Maxwell alleged, was born in Marshall, Okla. He said he abandoned his true name, James Zornard Robertson, to hide his identity.

Maxwell was revealed as Robertson when his wife, now Mrs. N. V. Denmore, attempted to collect $5000 war life insurance. Meanwhile, department of justice officials were investigating a report that Maxwell had been a divorcee from Maxwell at Oklahoma in 1920.

Because they are declared to have conclusively opposed President Roosevelt's recovery measures, the drive was opened today in Congress to defeat five Massachusetts congressmen and one congressional leader in the full election.

Launching of the drive was announced by U. S. Marshall John J. Murphy, former mayor of Somerville, who appointed to the marshal's post by President Roosevelt was confirmed today by the U. S. Senate.

Although Marshall Murphy did not have the approval of the other seven congressmen and one congressional leader, they are all expected to be defeated.

Roosevelt Talks Over the Silver Problem with Senators

Washington, Jan. 22 (AP)—One of President Roosevelt's private advisers, Prof. George F. Warren, told the Senate today that the administration's monetary views on the silver problem are being discussed with the Senate.

He expressed his views to the committee, conducting a preliminary preparatory to Senate action, while President Roosevelt went over the silver problem at a White House conference with three prominent Senators.

Indications grew that an effort would be made to attach silver legislation to the dollar-devaluation bill passed yesterday by the House.

The Cornell professor was questioned sharply about his contention that the price of commodities was determined to a considerable extent by the price of silver.

Senator Walcott (R-Cal.) asked if it would be a sound historical precedent to attach silver legislation to the dollar-devaluation bill.

Warren replied that many existing legislative proposals had been preceded by government bank-ers' conferences and a long period of war, and that if this would be a sound historical precedent, it would be a sound historical precedent.

Warren said he did not see how the fund could succeed.

Senator McNamara (D-Ill.) said there was a great deal of misapprehension about the bill and asked Warren to state its "specific purposes" and tell what benefit could result from its enactment.

"By cutting the gold content we can raise prices," Warren said.

"Raised prices will make it easier for men to pay their debts. It will make their profits easier. It becomes easier to pay."

Warren will rise, since business will rise.

Warren added that it would be a great benefit to the life insurance business while the prices will rise and while in the smaller dollar the value of the dollar remains constant.

BOSTON WOMEN AROUSE ENVY WITH STYLE

By PEGGY DOYLE
Perhaps the apparel of no women in the world is as much discussed as is the raiment of Boston women. It's not only a moot question but, on occasion, it's been a hot question and out of it all the consensus is that the women of Boston, in matters of style, are different.

Far from the usual inference that the style of the Boston matron tends to dowdiness, it becomes more and more evident that Boston's feminine style, at its best, is a model for the world. For the foremost couturiere of the world are agreed that valid style should be attuned to and complement individuality.

The designer-in-chief of one of Boston's most exclusive shops expressed it in this way:

EXPRESS INDIVIDUALITY

"I do not believe that the debauchees of Boston establish any worthy standard of dress for the younger woman, since there is a confusion between the conservatism in which she is reared and the natural tendency of the young toward the more extreme styles. The result is a sort of hybrid angle of fashion for the younger woman of Boston society."

"But the cultured woman of Boston is the very personification of the phrase, 'The well-dressed woman.' She is the best-dressed woman in America."

"American women generally are sadly over-dressed, particularly New York and Chicago women. Los Angeles or Hollywood style is ludicrous generally—a mish-mash of old Paris style or old costume book inspiration. Just imagine any lady wearing a Joan Crawford, Lillian Tashman or Connie Bennett creation! Over-dressing is the cardinal sartorial sin."

BOSTON'S BEST DRESSED

Asked to name some of Boston's best-dressed women, she mentioned: Eugene MacGregor, Mrs. Ezra Eaton, Mrs. William Gallup, Mrs. John Meyers, Mrs. E. Fred Cullen, Mrs. Channing Wells, Mrs. Paul Rust, Jr., Mrs. Frederick Dabney, Mrs. Hamilton Garland, Mrs. William C. Cox, Mrs. William Kennedy, Mrs. C. F. Avery, Mrs. John Abbott, Mrs. Phineas N. Sprague, Mrs. Edward Cunningham, Mrs. Ralph Carpenter, Mrs. Walter Brown, Mrs. Julius Eisenman, Mrs. Edgar Pierce, Mrs. Nathaniel Emmens, Mrs. F. H. Clark and Mrs. A. Lawrence Ritchie.

She also revealed that many of the stage's brightest stars, who aim to be style-right, do their shopping in Boston. These include Ethel Barrymore, Jane Cowl, Helen Morgan, Bettina Hall, Helen Hayes, Genevieve Tobin, Nathalie Hall and Marcella Swanson.

France Cuts Duty on American Asparagus

Paris, Jan. 22 (INS)—American canned asparagus will receive the benefit of a minimum tariff under the terms of a decree published in the official journal today.

Early Treatment of Colds Advised by Doctors

At this season of the year when the bleak New England state frequently causes an epidemic of head colds and menace health, there is particular interest in how to safeguard the individual. Prior to actual treatment or medication, health authorities point out, there are efficient and effective ways of swiftness the germs of various winter ailments.

Persons who are in the early stages of colds are advised by physicians to consume plenty of water and to make every effort to procure sound and prolonged sleep. Deep breathing, a full exhalation of the lungs is also suggested as a basic element in thwarting head

Women Linked in Fur Coat Theft

Two women, about 40 years of age, who visited the Black Bay fur store of Edward Kaskan, Inc., in Newbury st., and gave fictitious addresses in Brooklyn, were believed today to be responsible for the theft of a $1700 mink coat there Saturday.

6 WATERTOWN BOYS HELD AS BANDITS

With six Watertown youths in custody, state police are seeking the other members of a gang of alleged youthful bandits, believed to be responsible for numerous holdups and thefts in Belmont, Watertown, Waltham and Cape Cod.

Three of the six minors were arrested yesterday by state police in Norwell. They were riding in a stolen auto, to which stolen motor plates had been attached.

The other three were taken into custody by Belmont police while trying to steal an auto.

State Trooper James P. Daily made the arrest in Norwell. He had alleged alleged driver, at gunpoint. The officers found two loaded guns and a quantity of loot, believed to have been stolen from Cape Cod homes.

The trio is charged with carrying loaded guns.

The Belmont trio were released in the custody of their parents after questioning.

FAY GILLIS WINS SOVIET PRAISE

Moscow, Jan. 22 (US)—Fay Gillis, American aviatrice today became the first foreigner in Soviet Russia to own and fly a glider.

Miss Gillis is the daughter of Julius H. Gillis of New York, a manufacturer now employed by the Soviet government.

With the consent of government officials, a graceful red-winged glider was delivered to her, and without any previous instruction in the art of gliding she took off in the craft from the crest of a steep hill in the presence of a large group of applauding dignitaries.

Miss Gillis said she plans to enter the Soviet glider competitions in an attempt to set new records and will later take her glider to the U.S.S.R.

Officials of the Osoaviakhim Glider field in Moscow said they hoped glider clubs in America would invite Russian competitors to participate in gliding meets in the United States.

Gum Heiress to Ask Divorce From Actor

Hollywood, Jan. 22 (INS)—The former Evelyn V. Adams, heiress to part of the chewing gum million, and her actor husband, Howard Cresson Williams, have separated, he revealed today.

She assertedly is in Paris to obtain a divorce from him and he is here to "start life anew," he said.

"We parted because I wanted to continue my acting career and she wanted me to hang around her Long Island estate holding my hands," Williams said.

Found Hanging From Tree

Taunton, Jan. 22—Alden P. Chute, 32, was found dead hanging from a tree on the banks of the Taunton river.

The dangerous common cold, an ever-present menace at this time of year, can be effectively and cheaply safeguarded against by simple methods, is the advice of Dr. Henry D. Chadwick, Massachusetts commissioner of public health. Misses Betty Chadwick and Doris Anderson, from the cast of "All the King's Horses," at the Shubert Theater, demonstrate how they protect themselves against the rigorous New England climate.

FLOWERS WITH PRINTS CACHET OF CHIC :- FRESH, VIBRANT NEW SKINS FOR OLD

Match Scent to SOME NEW IDEAS IN THIS SMART COIFFURE Feel Life Quiver and Surge

Artificial Posies

By Victoria Goines
(Authentic Last-minute fashions from New York—the style center of America)

SEEKING ONE DREAM walking down Fifth Avenue with a cluster of violet thrust jauntily into the jeweled clip at her neckline, started us off on a train of thought about fashions in flowers. Or rather, fashions in ways of wearing them, for the humblest gift of rose gals in glamour if worn with imagination, and a truly high-class bloom like the orchid acquires an almost unbearable chic.

With spring coming on, flowered frocks and flower-trimmed hats will be widely worn. What subtlety must have been possessed by the woman who first wore real flowers to complement the make-believe ones on her frock or hat. Parisiennes are much cleverer than we are at that sort of thing—they even use perfume that belongs with the flowers they are wearing. A gardenia scent with a field flower-printed frock is a peculiarly American faux pas.

You'd think, with the high, ruffled necklines now in vogue, there wouldn't be a place left for a flower to lay its lovely head. But they nestle neatly into the joining of collar and gown—white gardenias tucked into the neckline of a black velvet frock is a particularly popular example.

FLOWER BRACELETS. Often, too, a single vivid flower will blossom forth boldly on the bosom of a perfectly plain dress. To give that "pouter pigeon" look that will be so smart this spring.

Noeys tucked into bracelets are used to give chiffon handkerchiefs for evening wear are nothing new, of course. But many coming out parlate this season, debutantes wear bracelets or cuffs entirely composed of flowers. Many a bud literally lived up to her name, for the budding flowers that formed her wristband or cuff—fashions so charming and lovely that every spring bride will probably send a bouquet for her wedding procession.

MARY PICKFORD. Here's a neat trick that Mary Pickford showed us. Between changes of costume for her stage act, she noticed that she slipped a chiffon scarf about her neck and kept it from being disarranged, instead of using the usual—and generally useless—hairnet. Just an ordinary chiffon scarf, about a yard long, and with a bit of shirring in the center that any woman could stitch in. When the shirred section was placed in the middle of the forehead, and the ends wound around the head, it made a fascinating and protective cap. Mary explained that she started using it for quick costume changes in the movies, and that it drew so many compliments that she now has it in her wardrobe for evening wear, too. She places a few vivid clips on either side when she wears it to keep her hair clean and tidy to keep her hair clean and tidy while motorizing, traveling, etc. If you're one of those lucky ones who can run a comb through your hair and have it look fresh from the hairdresser, then this is not for you. But if your crowning glory requires a little bit of blurring to look its best, then Mary Pickford's device is a great help in preserving these precious curls.

Pandora Tells You

DEAR PANDORA: I'm in a very odd predicament. Believe it or not, I can't tell whether my husband is going slightly crazy, or is merely playing a practical joke on me. I suppose it's silly of me to do so, but I'm wondering at all for he is a confirmed fastener, but I remark that his mother once made that's got me a trifle worried. She referred to him as "bavely senile," and if you know what that means, you'll know that I might have grounds for suspicion.

He forgets things continually, and is becoming more and more absent-minded every day. A week ago I caught him buttering his toast on both sides. The climax came this morning. I distinctly saw him pull both socks on one foot, and then spend several minutes looking for the other sock. That's been going on for a little more than a week now. Pandora, and you know it's not right.

Perhaps he's just putting on a show, so to speak, but I wonder. What do you think?
DEAR TWITTERING: It is impossible to measure the madness of your boyfriend, unless, of course, he's very smart he sounds utterly foolish. I can't give him the slightest attention when he's doing any of those odd things. It's just a show he'll soon tire of. If he sees your eyes are so much occupied at him, he'll stop. PANDORA.

MARY CARLISLE wearing a new coiffure. The brush curls which form a halo over the crown of the head add height and length to the face, and just a touch of sophistication. The single wave over the right eye softens the otherwise simple hairline.

By Mary Carlisle

IF YOU HAVE been longing to wear braids around your head and look taller as a consequence, and took taller as a consequence, you need not go to the hairdresser to get a new coiffure. An excellent substitute.

In the front, the effect is almost the same as braids. The hair of the crown that peep up over the crown of the head looks just about the same as a braid and is a particularly popular example.

It gives the added inches that I need. Look. Across the front of my forehead, there is the smooth, unwaved hair from temple to temple, with just a pretty swirl over the right eye and a clean, decided left-side part to keep it from being too severe. A few curls over each ear and the front of the hair that of a coiffure with braids.

The back view is a surprise. Many think it is much more youthful than braids and more suited to an ingenue! From the nape of the neck to the top of the head there is just a mass of small curls—some that have to be brushed around the finger. The general effect is circular. I admit, it isn't a braid that tells everyone I'm a sub-deb; neither is the front.

The side view, however, is the one that I like best. It is more sophisticated looking than either the front or the back and I am especially partial to the left side where the part shows. Somehow, this coiffure gives me the feeling of youth and smartness that I admire; it isn't a braid that tells everyone I'm a sub-deb; neither is the front.

It takes a little longer in the morning to arrange the curls, but it is well worth the trouble and in the evening it looks perfectly great. I wouldn't advise any girl for imitating this coiffure, especially if she's my type and needs to look a bit older than she actually is.

DEAR MRS. PICKFORD: I'm a friend of mine is giving a shower for a friend of hers whom I have never met. I have been invited and I would like some information concerning an appropriate gift and what to wear?

1.—What is the usual entertainment at an affair of this sort? It is to be given in the evening.
2.—Do I take the gift with me, and to whom do I present it?
3.—Usually, on the invitation there is some indication of what kind of gift is expected. . . . that is, whether the shower is to be a linen shower, a kitchen shower, a glass shower, or even the definite "miscellaneous shower." Was there nothing like that to guide you in the gift that you are supposed to bring? If there isn't then by all means inquire of your friend as to her suggestion. . . . she may know and may have forgotten to tell you about the type of gift. An informal dress, a dress of the "dinner dress" type, would undoubtedly be the appropriate dress to wear.

HERE YOU can see the mass of curls that cover the whole back of her head. Slightly reminiscent of the lovely ladies of Greece, and goes beautifully with the new evening gowns, many of which are almost Grecian in their simplicity.

THE LEFT side is shown here. The hair is parted on this side. This coiffure would lend itself beautifully to hair-ornaments for evening, particularly a diamond star over one ear or a sparkling band.

Through Tissues That Are Lax and Dry

By Therese Deschamps

THE ROUNDED CHEEK, the crisp lines of a young girl's face, how very few women keep a trace of them even when they are there anything we can do when stress and time and life have and heavy frowns on forehead, pressed ungently lines around eyes and lips and spoiled the lovely curve from chin to the hollow in our throats?

Yes! Alas, weather-beaten, wrinkled skins restored and rebuilt to a clear youthfulness and vitality one would think possible. But it's true! Science at last has made possible the creation of a building cream which penetrates deeply into the pores to build new cells and restore elasticity.

When young skins become prematurely worn, sallow, and suffer from fatigue, or older skins look starved, undernourished and wrinkled, it is a sign that the blood stream isn't giving them the necessary elements they need. Twin biochemical creams have been discovered which gently quicken the blood stream and supply elements necessary for the tissues to build cells.

Of these two creams the weaker or day cream may be used at any time as a quick, refreshing treatment. It has a soothing, cleansing properties, too. For best results this cream should be left on the face and neck for at least 15 minutes, or as long as possible.

The night cream penetrates deeply into the skin layers at night, when the skin is at its most receptive. After cleansing the skin at night with an astringent or skin lotion if you wish, and then apply the night cream. Leave it on overnight, if possible.

Women using these creams have been given a definite skin treatment. It has a soothing, cleansing properties, too. For best results this cream should be left on the face and neck for at least 15 minutes, or as long as possible.

They have become more radiant and firmer and have caught up the missing link of youth. (Creams for the face and neck are sold at 10¢, 25¢, 50¢, 75¢, 1.00, 1.50, 2.00, 2.50, 3.00, 3.50, 4.00, 4.50, 5.00, 5.50, 6.00, 6.50, 7.00, 7.50, 8.00, 8.50, 9.00, 9.50, 10.00, 10.50, 11.00, 11.50, Eddie Collins
'And His Mania'
For Collecting
And Its Connection
With Herbie Pennock
And the Red Sox
By AUSTEN LAKE

A man's friends seldom mention such things about a whisper. But this is moment for candid warning, and I think you should know that Edward Werther Collins, our Eddie of the Red Sox, is afflicted with collector's mania, a mild form of lunacy for which science has, as yet, no remedy and which causes its victims to assemble such things as snuff-boxes, fiddle-back chairs, and colonial rum-crocks, under the delusion that they have a sentimental value. Why, I once knew a reporter who hoarded historic razors, the price of which was a yellowish, bone-hardened razor that a notorious tiger-woman had used to carve her philandering husband as he slept. But no matter.

Eddie's infirmity, except at intervals, crops out in collecting rare postage stamps, which is innocent enough, except that once in a while he becomes violent and comes home dragging a frowny splinter of a table on which Ben Franklin was once supposed to have played cribbage, or an antique candle mould or snuff-box. Eddie, is sensitive about this and only his intimate friends know, so that it was by pure chance that I discovered the thing which now threatens to become malignant and affect the future of the Red Sox.

A Secret that Came Out by the St. Pete Seawall

It happened this way. Several Spring training seasons ago when the Athletics and Cubs were to plan an exhibition game with the Braves, Eddie and I were strolling beside the municipal seawall, chatting on this and that. A fresh wind was blowing and as Eddie flicked out his kerchief—I think he intended to blow his nose—several little colored squares of paper tumbled from his pocket and floated toward the water. I paid no attention, but Eddie shrieked "Eee-yow" and made a flying, heading tackle to slap the fluttering bits of paper to the pavement just south of the railing.

Well, it gave me a fright and, noting the wild light in Eddie's staring eyes, I asked, "What's the matter?" "Nothing," moaned Eddie, licking the scraps away with longing care. "That was a narrow squeak. One of these is a genuine Marlinette 2-cent, 1873 marmoset, watermarked and uncancelled, and the other is a bonafide 25-cent Trinidad, grown on buff with smooth edges and perforated for special service."

And, for the rest of the walk the wild light stayed in Eddie's eyes and he babbled giddily about how he once duped an old coddler in Lansdowne, Pa., out of a first-run 50-cent U. S. airmail, black and orange, for a strip of three French 1857's, pen-cancelled, and he cackled a shrill, falsetto laugh the while. Then I knew that Eddie was a collector's mania.

Completing His Southway Cycle

It is fitting too, that he should be taking this exhibition South next month to Sarasota, which is the home of another great collector, John Ringling, who has a museum of Venetian marble valued at nineteen million dollars and crammed with such curios as the bathtub in which the French revolutionist, Jean Paul Marat, was sitting when Charlotte Corday sneaked up and stabbed him with a breadknife. At least Ringling claims that distinction for his copper tub, which he bought at a scandalous price, although I have seen another Marat dead-tub in Madame Tussaud's London waxworks, and still another in a private museum of horrors on the Bonle Mische in Paris. But Mr. Ringling has, or had, before the Prudence Bond Co. of N. Y., grabbed it for collateral, the finest globe of Robert's paintings in the world and such relics as Mme. Pompadour's night shift and the Cardiff giant, which is supposed to be the petrified figure of a prehistoric man.

In picking up Herbie Pennock, Eddie has completed the cycle of his southway collection and, where he previously might drop him as the fastest speed-ball thrower in the game, he signed Pennock yesterday as the slowest soft-ball thrower, thus giving him, with Walberg, Welland and Ostermuller, a range of varying speeds that run the entire scale of pitching. Because Pennock, with his stylish, Sunday school motion, can toss up balls that float like slowest moons and levitate the batters, please to crimp their toes and take a full hammer-thrower's windup. Only the batters are apt to find, if they hit it at all, that the ball feels like an overripe tomato or a rust-pudding.

In baseball game Pennock is a "nibbler," so called because he seldom gives a batter's full bite at his offerings, so that, maybe, Collins is matching him with Lefty Grove for the sake of their contrasting speeds and the greater confusion of the batters. For there is nothing so unsettling after a diet of whizzbangs to be suddenly switched to a ration of easy-bubbles. And I am wondering whether, after all, there may not be a method in Collins' collector's mania.

SPORTS CRASH

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 22 (AP)—Burt Shotton, Philadelphia's head trainer of managers, will be coach of the Cincinnati Red Sox in the 1924 season, the Red Sox announced today.

For a time, the former Red Sox pitcher and outfielder, who was mentioned prominently as the manager of the Sox through the winter of 1923, was the subject of much speculation. But Shotton, who was named as the coach of the Sox, was not the man who was named as the coach of the Sox.

Shotton's coach was named as Larry MacPhee, general manager of the Sox.

N.E. Velterberg Attends Opening Garden Class

By JACK CONWAY
Werther Arcelli of the North End, who was crowned New England welterweight champion when he outscored Andy Callahan, will be one of the instructors at the Boston Evening American-Boston Garden school for amateur boxers, which opens tonight.

"I would like to help train the hundreds of boys who are going to enter the training classes," Arcelli told Matchmaker Ames. "I don't want a cent for compensation. I just want the chance to help some boy improve his health and learn how to box."

Arcelli was asked to be at the Garden at 6:30 tonight when more than 200 youngsters ranging in age from 15 to 21 will enroll in the training classes.

Tony Shocco, Al Mello and Johnny Indrino, three of the best known boxers in New England, have also volunteered their services as instructors.

GYM FULLY EQUIPPED
General Manager Harold Dibble of the Garden has the New Garden Gym in the Exhibition Hall equipped with a ring, punching bag, stands, and other gym fixtures.

It is not necessary for a boy to have boxed in order to join the Garden classes. In fact, Billy Ames says he prefers youngsters who in charge have been in competition. He feels it is easier to teach "raw" material than it is to correct mistakes in boxers who have had two or three years in amateur competition.

There are two ideas back of the proposed training classes which were originally suggested by Austen Lake of the Boston Evening American.

They are as follows:
"To develop hundreds of boys physically by giving them an opportunity to train under proper conditions, with capable instructors and with the necessary equipment."
"To help develop boxers who in time will be able to win world's ring championships for Boston and New England.

The idea has been well received by hundreds of boys who have the desire to become boxers, but who have lacked instructors and a place to train.

Billy Ames and Bobby Goldman will be on hand at the Garden tonight to enroll the boys who will report at 6:30 p. m. They will be classified according to weight. It was necessary to have different training schedules for boys of different weight.

The kind of work that would put a heavyweight in condition might prove harmful to a flyweight or featherweight. Each class will receive individual attention.

The boys will not be permitted to box until they have first been schooled in the fundamentals of boxing. The task of developing the boys into boxers will be a slow one, but those persons who are willing to devote the necessary time to the idea so that the health of the youngsters will be benefited and to enable them to reach the top of the ring game before they are placed in competition.

Remember the time. It is 6:30 p. m.

at the place. It is the Boston Garden.

Werther Arcelli, Johnny Indrino and Al Mello will be there to show you how to train. Give them a chance to show you the young boxers of Boston and New England. Give them the time they intend to make the most of it.

Yankees Picked Prize From Green Campus

By JOE CASHMAN
Robert Abial Rolfe... one of 2120 residents of Pensacola, N. H., Exeter '27, Dartmouth '31... baseball letterman... Phi Sigma Kappa member... toots a mean sax... hair red... a nickname name.

Nothing remarkable about that, except a tall the following spring thumbnailed sketch. Maybe three or four remarkable about the fact that he is a Yankee. But the New York Yankees mastermind think otherwise.

They're counting on this boy from the hills of old New Hampshire making good in the big city this season by playing midway between the delivery of Frank Crosetti and the batting of Babe Ruth.

Life for Rolfe has been pretty hard. He has had to learn the hard way, since his high school days, that he is not a professional athlete. He has had to learn the hard way, since his high school days, that he is not a professional athlete.

NEVER ABANDON PLAYERS
Rolfe's manager, former Giants pitcher, coaches the "Big Green" diamond forces, many looked for Rolfe to land with the Giants. McGraw wanted the youngster, but Rolfe was not ready to leave his home.

It is a rule never to advise his players of the future. He has to wait until they are through college before dealing with the pros. Jeff Chase, the Yankees scout who was on Rolfe's trail off the Dartmouth campus. It did no good.

The Ivory Hunter stuck right in Hanover until after commencement exercises and landed his prize. How much the suburn-chitch was worth, only Rolfe knows. The specimen of his handwriting is not bad. He has a good penmanship.

It was not more than five cents to every dollar that was spent for Rolfe. He has a good penmanship. It was not more than five cents to every dollar that was spent for Rolfe. He has a good penmanship.

HARVARD KEEPS SPORTS CONTACT

Harvard recently revised sports budget will necessitate only a slight revision of winter and spring schedules, according to an announcement from the N. A. A. today.

The new schedules which are to be announced later this week, will find no more than 10 contests slashed from the original list, an average of less than one game per team.

Certain adjustments are being effected with college plying the big sport of basketball. One hundred and twenty thousand, most of them standing, with a football cup tie in the big stadium at Wembley.

Five hundred thousand is the average attendance at the Derby even on a rainy morning. One hundred and twenty thousand, most of them standing, with a football cup tie in the big stadium at Wembley.

New York, Jan. 22—The crowd of 15,000 which packed Madison Square Garden in New York several weeks ago to see the initial match between Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines, was the largest ever to attend a match of tennis in this country. It was not, however, the largest tennis gathering in history.

The stars Roland Garros and Bill Tilden were nearly thirty when they met in the challenge round of the Davis Cup has taken place, does not even with the extra places recently added, hold more than 15,000 when full. At Wimbledon in London, on the other hand, this number is exceeded almost every day of the annual tennis fortnight in June.

English really fans The English certainly turn out for their sports. Over 100,000 line the banks of the Thames between Putney and Mortlake each March for the Oxford-Cambridge boat race.

In the first hour shares ruled higher. Radio shared the upward absorbed what profit-taking was apparent and then joined the upward movements. At the end of the price leaders were slightly better than at the start.

Corn Products, Delaware & Hudson and General Railway Shares were around 2 points higher. United Fruit, American Telephone & Telegraph, Libby Owens, Ingalls Rand and U. S. Smelting all back a point or so. Issues up about one point included Pullman, Canadian Industrial Rayon, Matheson Chemicals, American Commercial International and Celanese.

Sales to 11 a. m. approximately $700,000 shares.

A quieter tone prevailed in the second hour until near the end of the period when buying in oil again stimulated the list. Socoyo Vacuum and Standards of New Jersey and California were fractions to a point higher by noon. The bond division maintained a cheerful tone with signs of further substantial buying interest in second day and prime classifications. U. S. governments had a firm tone.

Sales to noon approximated 1,350

Trend was mixed in the third hour and gains and losses were about evenly divided. Oil shares stiffened with Seaboard and Texas Co. showing gains of a point or more. American Telephone was down a major fraction and the early gain in U. S. Steel was wiped out. Granite City Steel showed a point gain.

Homestake Mining sagged 2 points. Mary was up better than 2 points. Point or more gains appeared for Amerada, American Home Products and Air Reduction. Zoomed down around a point included Chrysler, Ingersol Rand, Libby Owens, Ford Penick & Ford, Simmons, U. S. Smelting and Western Union.

Prices held mixed throughout the fourth period and few changes were recorded. American Can extended its rise to slightly more than 2 points. U. S. Steel was steady around Saturday's closing price. Allied Chemical was down a point. U. S. Smelting and Western Union were down more than

Spokesmen for holders of bonds and notes of Interborough, B. M. T. and Manhattan Railway Co., New York City, are insisting that acquisition of properties under any plan of unification be at a price which will allow them at least the equivalent of the par value of their holdings, or $363,000,000. Changes in status of holding funds back of some of these bond and note status of sinking funds back to some of these bonds and note issuers have reduced this sum slightly, for purposes of present-day negotiations. Unification proceedings started by Mayor LaGuardia will be with essentially the same groups and interests who conferred with Mayor O'Brien.
